

A split section of the antique technology of research and cultivation, in various historical periods, is what you can find visiting the second room of the Museum. From a precise comparison of the various historical periods, you will see a clear improvement with the use of Iron tools, but most of all, the use of gun-powder.